Former Lt. Gov. George McMillan came out of a three-year hibernation on Wednesday, September 11 and he came out

First he announced his intentions to run for governor, then he cited Alabama's faltering educational system as evidence of state leadership he said lacked the courage and insight to move Alabama ahead. Speaking at Minor High School in Jefferson County, McMillan proposed broad changes in education, beginning with a mandatory test of teachers' basic skills. Teachers who are proved incompetent, he said, will be replaced. But he said teachers who initially fail the test would have four opportunities within two years to retake and pass the test. And he said the state would provide a remedial program to help those teachers. Make no mistake, however," he said. "We intend to remove incompetent teachers from our schools. "It is more apparent than ever that only through an education system that emphasizes excellence can our state achieve the economic growth and jobs we need." Two corporations in recent months chose to build large industrial plants in Tennessee rather than in Alabama. They did so, McMillan said, largely because they were impressed with the energy and intelligence of Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander and because of his education reform package.

He said state business leaders have told him Alabama is not sharing in the prosperity of the "sunbelt era" because of a continuing image problem and because its work force is ill-equipped to compete for today's high-tech jobs.

And he said that parents have most impressed with the beauty of told him the declining quality of the area; more important however, Alabama public schools is damaging was the hospitality of the people. their children's future. The cool weather that blew in last week has got everybody sniffling and battle the Opp Bobcats in the annual while the losses were to W.S. Neal had a lot of injuries early and were sneezing with colds; but I, for one, like the cool nights and hope they stay renewal of a hotly contested rivalry. 21-14 and Pike County 39-3. around for a long time!

I don't think anybody got excited last Friday night in Elba, despite the Tigers' 14-7 overtime win over Luverne. It was obvious from the start that the team was flat and expected to win, and without taking anything away from Luverne, Elba simple did not play a good game!

The offense continued to turn the ball over and has now fumbled the ball a total of 12 times in three games, far too many to win consistently. The running game bogged down and was outrushed for the first time this season, while the passing attack, which has looked so outstanding, was way off track. The defense looked a little flat early, but then took control and kept Elba in the ballgame. The defense bent at times, but was aggressive and never really let Luverne get going except for the one drive. The defense is getting better and could be a major factor as Elba gets into the meat of its schedule I bragged on the team last week and won't back-up this week and say I made a mistake. The team is young, but it is learning each and every week, and last week was a learning experience it won't soon forget. Hey, we all have bad days, but we don't need anybody telling us, we know it. The same is true with the team, it knows what happened and will improve. Let's all stick together and show the team we believe in it. After all, it's 3-0 and that's something to be proud of!

The, Elba Junior High Tigers lost to Ozark 21-0 in their opener, but played pretty good and showed lots of promise. New Brockton Gamecocks Overpower Goshen

New Brockton quarterback Jon Paul Sawyer (8) tries to elude a Goshen

VERTHROWN! Gamecock receiver Keith Patterson (84) leaps high.

The mark of a good football team is its ability to come back, and the New Brockton Gamecocks proved that quickly last Friday night in a 20-3 road victory over highly-ranked 2A foe, Goshen.

After dominating the first quarter the Gamecocks found themselves down 3-0 with very little time left in the first half as the Eagles had kicked a 36-yard field goal to take the lead. Stunned and in danger of losing the momentum, the Gamecocks responded like champions by roaring down the field and scoring to take the halftime lead.

The Gamecocks so dominated play that Goshen only ran 11 more plays the remainder of the game. The win pushed New Brockton off to a fast 3-0 start in the 1985 campaign. New Brockton won the toss, elected to receive but were forced to punt after an illegal motion penalty snagged a short drive that saw back Steffon Knox pick up 12 yards. Goshen took over after the punt with excellent field position at the Gamecock 47. That brilliant Gamecock defense snuffed out this otential scoring threat when Keith Patterson picked off a deflected
